The book is a collection of poems and prose that explore the many facets of motherhood. Buttle writes about the physical and emotional changes of pregnancy, the challenges of labor and delivery, the joys and frustrations of raising a child. She also writes about the more personal and reflective aspects of motherhood, such as the love she feels for her children and the way motherhood has changed her.

Buttle's writing is honest and raw, yet also full of hope and humor. She does not shy away from the challenges of motherhood, but she also celebrates the joys. Her poems and prose are a reminder that motherhood is a unique and precious experience, one that is filled with both challenges and rewards.

Here is an excerpt from one of Buttle's poems, "The Mother's Heart":

My heart is a garden, Where love grows wild. It is a place of joy, And sometimes, it is a place of pain.

But through it all, My heart keeps beating, For my children, My love, my joy, my pain.

Buttle's book is a must-read for any mother. It is a book that will make you laugh, cry, and think. It is a book that will remind you of the joys and challenges of motherhood, and it will help you to appreciate the precious gift of your children.
