Jeneveir Evans is a force of nature. As the founder and president of the Karma Angel Rebellion MC, she has dedicated her life to empowering women and creating a space where they can come together, heal from past traumas, and find strength in community.

Jeneveir's journey began in a small town in Kentucky. She grew up in a dysfunctional family, surrounded by violence and abuse. At a young age, she learned to rely on her own strength and resilience to survive.

When she was 18, Jeneveir joined the Army. She served for six years, and during that time she deployed to Iraq. Her experiences in the military were both challenging and rewarding. She learned valuable leadership skills, but she also witnessed firsthand the horrors of war.

After leaving the military, Jeneveir struggled to find her place in the civilian world. She felt lost and alone, and she was haunted by the memories of her experiences in Iraq.

One day, Jeneveir was riding her motorcycle when she came across a group of women who were also riding. She was drawn to their sense of camaraderie and freedom, and she decided to join their club.

The club became a safe haven for Jeneveir. She found a group of women who understood her experiences and who supported her unconditionally. She also discovered a passion for riding motorcycles, which gave her a sense of empowerment and freedom.

In 2014, Jeneveir founded the Karma Angel Rebellion MC. The club is a non-profit organization that provides support and resources to women who have experienced trauma or adversity.

The club's mission is to empower women to heal from their pasts and to create a better future for themselves. The club offers a variety of programs and services, including counseling, support groups, and motorcycle therapy.

Jeneveir is passionate about helping women overcome the challenges they face. She believes that every woman has the potential to be strong and successful, and she is committed to helping them reach their full potential.

The Karma Angel Rebellion MC has made a significant impact on the lives of many women. The club has helped women to heal from trauma, to find their voice, and to achieve their dreams.

Jeneveir Evans is a true pioneer. She has dedicated her life to empowering women and creating a space where they can come together and find strength in community. The Karma Angel Rebellion MC is a testament to her vision and her unwavering belief in the power of women.
